Special Meeting of the Council to Consider the Ordinance.

TWO LIQUOR CASES HEARD

Hearing in the Charge of Moore Brothers To-day—Court Notes.

Manchester Bureau, Times-Dispatch, 1102 Hull Street. The Manchester Council met in regular session last night and received reports from the standing committees. No new business was brought up, and it was decided to call the body together in special session next Thursday night for the purpose of considering the license tax ordinance.

At that time all citizens interested in the license taxes will be invited to appear.

JURYMAN PROTECTED

Judge Clifton is determined to uphold the majesty of the law and to maintain its supremacy. He received a letter from Mr. H. F. W. Southern, of the Cameron and Cameron Company, asking him to excuse Mr. Richard Ashbrook, an employe who is on the jury now sitting in the Corporation Court on the liquor cases. In his letter Mr. Southern said that if Mr. Ashbrook were not excused his place at the factory would probably have to be filled.

Deeming this an act of contempt, Judge Clifton had Mr. Southern brought before him. The latter declared that he meant to make no threat and had no intention of appearing in contempt.

Upon Mr. Southern's assurance that he would not discharge Mr. Ashbrook Judge Clifton discharged Mr. Southern.

Acting under the recent act of the Legislature, by which misdemeanor cases may be tried by a jury of seven men, Judge Clifton yesterday relieved a number of jurymen from further service on the liquor cases. Among them was Mr. Ashbrook.

TWO LIQUOR CASES

EXTENSION IS GRANTED

Williams and Middendorf Firms Have a Year Longer for Rehabilitation.

CONFIDENCE OF CREDITORS

Thoroughly Satisfied of Integrity and Business Capacity of the Firms.

Hon. Eppa Hunton, Jr., returned to the city on yesterday from his recent visit to Baltimore, where he went to attend, as a member of the advisory committee, the meeting of the creditors of the two firms of John L. Williams and Sons and J. William Middendorf and Company. When seen by a reporter for the Times-Dispatch, Mr. Hunton expressed himself as greatly gratified at the action of the creditors, and as very much impressed with the spirit manifested by all who participated in the meeting.

In response to the question as to the probable effect upon the financial fortunes of the two firms of the action of the creditors, Mr. Hunton said that he regarded it as of the highest importance and as a long step forward toward accomplishing the complete re-establishment of the two concerns. He said the extension heretofore granted only covered the period between October 1st and May 1st, during which the work of realizing upon the securities held had been embarrassed by the unfavorable financial conditions prevailing. The Baltimore fire, and several other unforeseen difficulties, had retarded the work now proposed is for a period of twelve months, from May 1, 1904, and was accorded with enthusiasm by all the creditors present at the meeting, after a full exposition of what had been accomplished towards the payment of their debts by the two firms during the past six months, and of the present financial condition of their affairs.

This long extension will enable the members of the two firms with the assistance of the advisory committee, to make the most advantageous sales of securities owned, which had been forced upon the market, would have resulted in great losses. In addition, the extension for the period of seven months' extension heretofore granted was nearing its completion, had suggested to would-be purchasers the thought that a forced sale of these securities might be expected, and that the market prices, while the new arrangement will be very helpful in strengthening and appreciating their value.

Mr. Hunton further stated that what especially impressed and gratified him was the cordial and unanimous expression of confidence in the integrity and business capacity of the individual members of the two firms. He said that his friends could not have wished for more cordial endorsements on this point.

In reply to the further question whether this action of the creditors at Baltimore would aid in the rehabilitation of the two firms, Mr. Hunton said that, of course, such was not the case, though he felt satisfied that it would have a most persuasive influence upon their action; that the creditors present had acted after the fullest exposition of the affairs of the two concerns, and only in view of what was demonstrable that such action was really for the best interests of the creditors themselves. Many of the leading creditors of Baltimore and other cities gave expression to their views, and were unanimous in the conviction that any creditor refusing to unite in the extension would, while creating a complication to some extent, inflict an even greater injury upon himself and other creditors similarly situated. So potent were these representations that in several instances creditors who had declined to record the extension, coupled with some modification of the general plan, withdrew their objections and executed the extension agreement.

HAVE STRONG HOPES NOW

Friends of Jamestown Exposition Greatly Encouraged by Action of House.

MAYNARD WORKING HARD

Trying His Best to Get Appropriation Bill Through This Session.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.) WASHINGTON, D. C., April 8.—The success of the bill appropriating $45,000 for an exhibit at the Lewis and Clark Exposition at Portland, Oregon, next year, greatly encouraged the Virginians who are interested in securing an appropriation in aid of the Jamestown Exposition in 1907. The vote in the House was overwhelmingly in favor of the appropriation.

It is a noticeable fact that all the younger members of Congress, as a rule, are for any appropriation to an exposition. There was a hard fight over the proposition to loan the St. Louis Exposition Company four millions in addition to the appropriation already made, and the bill went through chiefly by means of the votes of the younger element on both sides of the House.

Representative Maynard said to-day he was hopeful of having the Committee on Industrial Arts and Expositions report the Jamestown bill in a very short time. He hopes to get an appropriation at this session, and while there are many chances that he will not be able to do so, there are some that his energy and untiring industry in this matter will be successful. Mr. S. Gordon Cumming, of Hampton, chairman of the Legislative Committee of the Exposition Company, is here to-day, and will remain for a week or more in the interest of the Exposition bill.

THE GREAT EVENTS.

Champ Clark, of Missouri, in his speech in the House the other day for a suspension of the rules and the passage of the Lewis and Clark bill, said that the events in American history, which should be commemorated by means of expositions or other methods were the discovery of America by Columbus, the founding of Jamestown, the Declaration of Independence, the battle of Lexington, the surrender of Cornwallis, the adoption of the Federal Constitution, the Louisiana purchase, and the Lewis and Clark Expedition. There appears to be a most general sentiment among the members of the House in favor of a government appropriation for the celebration of the Jamestown anniversary, though there is some opposition to the Exposition idea.

Representative Hay said to-day he hoped that the bill creating a commission, which shall have charge of all the national parks of the country, and locate all new ones, would contain the provision which he is attempting to have put on it, that one of the members of the commission shall be a member of the Army of the Potomac or of the Army of Northern Virginia. He says that unless this is done, there will never be another military park located in the East, and every member of the commission will be a Western man.

SULLY'S FRIENDS BEATEN.

Not Having Things Their Way, They Quit the Meeting.

(By Associated Press.) NEW YORK, April 8.—The creditors of Daniel J. Sully and Company held a meeting to-day at which Sully's friends were beaten in an attempt to force an immediate settlement, and retired from the meeting. Those remaining adopted a resolution continuing the creditors' committee power and instructing it to continue its work of inquiring into Sully's affairs.

It was said after the meeting that Sully's proposition to pay forty cents on the dollar and give notes for three years, had been rejected by a large vote. The Corn Exchange Bank has turned over to the receivers the 1,730 bales of cotton held as surplus collateral, and this the receivers will sell.
